Meeting with President of Greece, Karolos Papoulias.

the U.S., and the interests of the U.S. in the region. There were meetings or briefings with American embassies, officials from various ministries, including Foreign Affairs; parliament members, religious leaders, think-tank organizations, and members of academia and the private sector of both countries. In Cyprus, the group visited the Turkish-occupied area.

“The trip provided a wonderful opportunity for me to lead such an exceptional group of students to Cyprus and Greece,” said AHI President Nick Larigakis. “It was rewarding to see them gain firsthand experience about the foreign policy issues that concern U.S. relations with Greece and Cyprus. The AHI Foundation looks forward to offering this program annually as support for it has grown and student interest remains at significant levels since the program’s inception four years ago.”

The nine students selected to participate were: Stephanos Karavas, Tufts University; Anna Tsiotsias, University of Pennsylvania; Maria Romas, University of Maryland; Alexis Angelo, Trinity University; Christo Galanis, Rutgers University; Evangelia Psarakis, Rutgers University; Manoli Anagnostiadis, University of Maryland; Aletha Vassilakis, University of California at San Diego; and Andrew Pernokas, Boston University.

“This trip was a highly informative one with access to individuals and opportunities that would seldom be available apart from AHIF. Most importantly, the foreign policy trip offers its participants the opportunity to have instilled in themselves the reality that they, as members of the global Hellenic community, have a stake—and thus, an obligation—in the resolution of crucial matters of policy surrounding Greece and Cyprus. It ought to be a game-changer in influencing the participants’ individual professional aspirations,” said Stephanos Karavas.

The program is open to Greek American and Cypriot American college students in good academic standing who are studying political science, international relations, history, and/or foreign affairs.

PANELISTS EXAMINE MYTHS, REALITIES OF GREECE’S ECONOMIC CRISIS

AHI hosted the policy seminar “The Greek Economic Crisis: Myth & Reality” featuring a panel of experts who examined various aspects of the topic on April 25, 2012 at the Capital

View of the Panel during the Q & A session.

Hilton, Washington, DC. Ambassador Vassilis Kaskarelis, then-Ambassador of Greece to the U.S., provided closing remarks and participated in a Q&A with the audience.

“With most of the headlines about Greece focusing on its economy and the impact upon the European Union and financial markets worldwide, we wanted to examine just what the realities of the situation are,” said AHI President Nick Larigakis. “Our expert panelists provided us with their insights and analyses providing us with a better understanding of how and why Greece found itself in the financial position it is in; what exactly is expected of Greece as the recipient of loans from the IMF and the Eurozone; how is Greece’s financial position intertwined with that of other nations; and what—if any—role can the Greek American community play in this complex picture.”

The panel featured: Dr. George P. Tsetsekos, dean, LeBow College of Business, Drexel University; Dr. Miranda Xafa, CEO, E.F. Consulting, former executive board member, International Monetary Fund; Nicolas Véron, senior fellow, Bruegel, Brussels-based think tank, and visiting fellow, Peterson Institute for International Economics; and Nicholas G. Karambelas, Esq., partner, Sfikas & Karambelas and AHI legal counsel. AHI President Nick Larigakis, moderated the panel. Each of the four panelists brought their unique perspective and expertise to the seminar topic.

In response, Ambassador Kaskarelis commended the panelists. He described the problem with Greece is not just economic, but political as well because politicians mismanaged the Greek economy. On Greece, Ambassador Kaskarelis stated the country is at a “turning point” but remains a “prosperous country” that must implement a system to regain credibility and make correct decisions. “I believe we are on the right path,” he said. “I believe Europe is strong.”

AHI RELEASES CONGRESSIONAL CANDIDATE SURVEY FINDINGS

In late October AHI released the results from its 2012 Congressional Candidate Questionnaire. The questionnaire was mailed in August to the campaign offices of candidates from the two major parties and select independent candidates who are running for congress.

“The questionnaire surveyed the candidates on issues that are of great importance to the Greek American community that involve U.S. relations with Greece and Cyprus, as well as developments in southeastern Europe and eastern Mediterranean region,” said AHI President Nick Larigakis.

AHI received 18 responses of which six candidates stated that they do not complete surveys or questionnaires. Twelve candidates did submit responses, including U.S. Senator Robert Menendez (D-NJ), a senior member of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, who submitted a detailed campaign statement that addressed issues pertaining to Greece, including the Aegean Sea boundary and FYROM; Cyprus, religious freedom for the Ecumenical Patriarchate, and U.S. policy toward Turkey. To view his statement, please visit www.aheworld.org.

“We thank the candidates, especially Senator Menendez, for taking the time to respond to our questionnaire; however, we are extremely disappointed with the poor overall response,” said Larigakis. “Although we contend the poor response rate is due to a lack of community activism at the grassroots level that must be addressed if we are to make strides, we do believe the Greek American community deserves better.”

The overwhelming majority of the 12 respondents were in agreement with each of the 14 policy positions taken by AHI.

CYPRUS DOCUMENTARY SCREENED AT 24 METROPOLITAN VENUES

Psilas, a chief organizer of the event, is the niece of Andrew Kassapis, a 17-year-old American citizen who was in Cyprus during the summer of 1974 and went missing for 24 years before his remains were discovered in Cyprus in 1998. A host of organizations and individuals also contributed to the screening’s success in Plymouth, including: Pan-Macedonian Association of Michigan, Nativity of the Virgin Mary Greek Orthodox Church, Peter and Litsa Drossos, Dr. Demetri and Irmgard Pallas, Dr. Demetrios and Dina Demetriou, Fay, Paul and Melina Mili; Costas and Eleni Kassapis, Andy and Irene Psilis, Fr. It was a pleasure to work in cooperation with them, and we thank all those individuals who helped to make the screenings a success.”

Our goal is to encourage communities to urge their PBS affiliates to air the documentary.”

The ceremony attendees at George Horton's gravesite.

AHI hosted a memorial to commemorate the 90th anniversary of the Smyrna catastrophe in Asia Minor at the gravesite of U.S. Consul General George Horton, whose book The Blight of Asia provided a firsthand account about the destruction of Smyrna and the plight of the Greeks of Smyrna. The memorial was held October 22, 2012, at Oak Hill Cemetery, Washington, DC. The ceremony, which included a wreath-laying, a prayer, and brief remarks about Consul General Horton in appreciation of his telling account, received coverage in The Washington Times.

In remarks, AHI Board Member James Marketos described the beauty of Smyrna at the time, the tragic ramifications upon Smyrna and the Greek people as a result of the catastrophe and the important role Consul General Horton played as witness and recorder of history.

“Thanks to George Horton, we know the truth about what happened in those dreadful days in Smyrna ninety years ago,” said Marketos. “But Horton’s testimony is useful not only for learning what happened in the past, and it is relevant beyond Greeks and Armenians. His experience is obviously dated, but it speaks directly to the problems that plague us today.”

Also providing remarks were: AHI President Nick Larigakis, Ambassador of Greece to the U.S. Christos Panagopoulos and Greece’s Defense Attaché Col. Evangelos Papadopoulos.

AHI INTERNS MEET MEMBERS OF CONGRESS, RAISE ISSUE AWARENESS

Interns from AHI met with their members of Congress in July to discuss issues of importance to the Greek American community. AHI President Nick Larigakis accompanied the interns to the meetings on Capitol Hill.

Intern Dimitri Dimitriou (University of California, Berkeley) visited U.S. Rep. Dana Rohrabacher (R-CA) on July 11, 2012. Dimitriou raised awareness about developments in the eastern Mediterranean pertaining to cooperative efforts between Cyprus and Israel, Egypt, and Lebanon to explore for hydrocarbon reserves within Cyprus’ exclusive economic zone (EEZ). He also informed Congressman Rohrabacher about Turkey’s various intimidation tactics in the eastern Mediterranean directed toward Cyprus and Israel. In addition, the congressman expressed interest in H.R.2597, “The American Property in Occupied Cyprus Claims Act.” He also re-affirmed his position that reopening the Halki Seminary School is important, and he expressed concern regarding other religious freedom violations in Turkey.

AHI Intern Cady Papageorgiou (SUNY, Geneseo) met with U.S. Rep. Yvette D. Clarke (D-NY) on July 20, 2012. Congresswoman Clarke welcomed the opportunity to become informed on the issues especially because she was familiar with members of the Greek American community of New York. Papageorgiou raised awareness about the Cyprus issue and the latest developments regarding Cyprus with regard to the exploration of hydrocarbon reserves. Congresswoman Clarke offered that the Turkish invasion and occupation by Turkish troops is not behavior that any NATO alliance country should display.

He added the Task Force was composed of a large number of people, many of who were familiar with Turkey or were Turkish Americans. However, Ambassador Theros noted that two main factors with regard to Turkey caused the United States to look at Turkey with a more critical eye. The factors are: AKP's coming to power with Prime Minister Recep Tayyip Erdogan coupled with the diminished power of the Turkish military and the end of Turkey's relationship with Israel.

AHI IN THE NEWS

AHI's commemoration of the Smyrna catastrophe at the gravesite of U.S. Consul-General George Horton was covered in The Washington Times' October 30, 2012 Embassy Row column by James Morrison. Under the heading “An Envoy Remembered,” the columnist wrote: “Most historians blame Turkish forces for torching the city and killing tens of thousands of Greeks and Armenians, beginning on Sept. 9, 1922, at the end of the Greco-Turkish War. Hundreds of thousands of Smyrna's residents crowded the city's waterfront, desperate for evacuation as U.S. and other allied warships lay at anchor. Some historians say the allies had orders not to interfere with the destruction of the city.”

Antenna TV Journalist Thanassis Tsitsas interviewed AHI President Larigakis about the November 2012 election in the United States. The interview took place September 12, 2012 in Washington.

Nicholas G. Karambelas, Esq., legal counsel for AHI, appeared on National Public Radio's “The Diane Rehm Show” on Mon., June 18, 2012, to discuss the “Results of the Greek Elections and the Future of the Euro Zone.” Susan Page guest hosted the show which aired on WAMU 88.5 FM in Washington, DC. Karambelas explained the results of the Greek election, including the lack of any one party to win a mandate to govern and offered his thoughts on the ability of the Greek political parties, led by leading vote-getter New Democracy, to form a governing coalition.

Letters to the Editor

The Washington Post published a letter to the editor on Monday, July 23, 2012 submitted by AHI. AHI's letter authored by President Nick Larigakis was written in response to the July 8, 2012 opinion piece “Old Cyprus feud snares tour group,” by Hershel Shanks, editor, Biblical Archaeology Review. Shanks's organization, the Biblical Archaeological Society, chose to enter Cyprus via an illegal port of entry when it embarked on a tour of Cyprus' religious sites despite efforts by AHI and other entities to educate the Society about the detriments of such an action. Larigakis corrected inaccuracies and noted omissions in Shanks's piece about Cyprus. Larigakis also noted that Shanks excluded mention of the destructions of Cyprus' religious and cultural heritage. Additionally, Larigakis' letter emphasized the importance of adhering to the rule of law when traveling to Cyprus and clearly defined the legal manner to enter the Republic of Cyprus. In closing, Larigakis asserted that Shanks has taken an irresponsible position and has done a disservice to his colleagues by “embracing convenience at the expense of international law...”

Also, AHI submitted Letters to the Editor of The Washington Post on the topic of President Barack Obama's effort to build a special relationship with Turkey on June 8, 2012 and to the New York Times on Turkey's posture toward the museum community on October 4, 2012.

STATEMENTS AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

AHI Releases 2012 Policy Statements

On May 8, 2012 AHI announced the release of its 2012 Policy Statements. The policy statements discuss issues affecting the Greek American community as they pertain to United States relations with Greece, Cyprus, and Turkey.

“We strongly urge everyone to utilize the policy statements to their full potential, educating policymakers and creating awareness of the issues to the greater community at-large,” said AHI President Nick Larigakis. “The positions presented in the document are in the best interests of the United States. We also sincerely thank the record number of organizations that have endorsed the policy statements.”

The policy statements are approved by several membership-based organizations including: AHEPA; American Hellenic Council of California; Armenian National Committee of America; Cyprus Federation of America; Evrytanian Association of America “Velouchi”; Hellenic American National Council (HANC); International Coordination Committee-Justice for Cyprus (PSEKA); Pancretan Association of America; Pan-Pontian Federation of U.S.A and Canada; Panepirotic Federation of America; and United Chios Societies of America and Canada.

AHI Statement: 38th Anniversary of Cyprus Invasion

AHI issued a statement on July 20, 2012 in remembrance of the 38th anniversary of Turkey's invasion of the Republic of Cyprus in 1974. The statement begins:

“Today we remember the solemn 38th anniversary of Turkey’s brutal invasion of the Republic of Cyprus. On July 20, 1974, Turkey invaded the Republic of Cyprus with the illegal use of U.S.-supplied arms and equipment in violation of the U.S. Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, the United Nations Charter, the NATO Treaty, and customary international law. Turkey occupied about four percent of Cyprus during the initial phase of its invasion. Turkish pilots flying American planes dropped American-made bombs, including napalm bombs, on Greek Cypriot communities.”

In addition to the tragic results of the Turkish invasion, which included the deaths of innocent civilians, forced removal of 170,000 Greek Cypriots from their homes, and mass destruction of Cyprus’ cultural and religious heritage, AHI’s statement also cited Turkey’s recent threats to Cyprus’ efforts to explore within its exclusive economic zone (EEZ) and Cyprus’ contributions as a friend of the U.S. on issues of counterterrorism and security in the region.

For the remainder of the statement, visit www.aheworld.org.

AHI Lauds Foreign Affairs Chair’s Commentary

AHI lauds a commentary titled “Time for Turkey to leave Cyprus in peace” by U.S. Congresswoman Ileana Ros-Lehtinen (R-FL), chairman, House Committee on Foreign Affairs, which was published in The Washington Times on June 15, 2012.

Chairman Ros-Lehtinen writes: “By its occupation, Turkey is ‘guaranteeing’ nothing but a creeping annexation. It is time for Turkey to withdraw its military troops, end all support for illegal immigration to Cyprus and let the true inhabitants of the island determine their own future. Only then will the long-suffering Cypriot people finally enjoy the peace and security they have been trying so desperately to achieve for decades.”

In her commentary, the congresswoman correctly cites examples of the consequences of Ankara’s detrimental policies toward Cyprus and its people, added Larigakis.

AHI Requests Presidential Campaigns to Engage with Community

AHI sent letters to the presidential campaigns of President Barack Obama and Governor Mitt Romney requesting that the two campaigns each issue a campaign statement to the Greek American community on issues of importance to the community.

A condensed version of AHI policy statements on Greek American issues addressing five policy areas accompanied each letter to the candidate and examples of campaign statements issued by previous presidential candidates of the same political party.

Moreover, AHI and the Armenian National Committee of America (ANCA) issued a joint statement calling on the two presidential campaigns to engage with the Greek and Armenian American communities.

AHI Applauds Committee Passage of Halki Resolution

AHI applauded passage of a congressional resolution by the U.S. House Committee on Foreign Affairs that calls upon the Government of Turkey to facilitate the reopening of the Ecumenical Patriarchate's Theological School of Halki without condition or further delay. U.S. Rep. Gus Bilirakis (R-FL), member, House Committee on Foreign Affairs, and co-chair, Congressional Caucus on Hellenic Issues, introduced the resolution, which passed the committee with unanimous consent in June. The legislation enjoyed strong bipartisan support, including from House Foreign Affairs Committee Chairman Ileana Ros-Lehtinen (R-FL) and Ranking Member Howard Berman (D-CA). In addition, AHI welcomed a statement by U.S. Rep. AHI Announces New Legislative Hire

Georgea Polizos.

AHI announced the hire of Georgea Polizos as its legislative assistant in September. “We are fortunate to have Georgea join our staff,” said AHI President Nick Larigakis. “Georgea’s international affairs policy background will be a tremendous asset to our outreach efforts to Capitol Hill.”

Georgea holds a Bachelor of Science in Education from the University of Georgia and a Master of Arts in International Affairs from Florida State University, where she focused on the Balkans. Prior to beginning her graduate studies, Georgea spent two years working with Greek and Eastern European college students as the Student Life Coordinator at the American Farm School in Thessaloniki, Greece. As a graduate student, she interned at the Greek Embassy and AHI, and with the latter, she attended the Student Foreign Policy trip in 2010. Additionally, Georgea spent a semester in London studying the European Union and ethno-national conflicts. While abroad, she also interned with Seeds of Peace, an organization focused on developing educational programs for students from conflict-ridden areas. Polizos replaces AHI’s Media Relations Director and Research Analyst Demetra Atsaloglou, who left to pursue graduate studies at Columbia University.

The public statements of U.S. Reps. Gus M. Bilirakis (R-FL) and Carolyn Maloney, co-chairs, Congressional Hellenic Caucus; U.S. Reps. John Sarbanes (D-MD), Shelley Berkley (D-NV), Ed Royce (R-CA), and Niki Tsongas (D-NV) are available at www.aheworld.org.

AHI Rebutts Congressman’s Floor Statement Recognizing Turkey

AHI issued a statement in rebuttal to U.S. Rep. Ed Whitfield’s (R-KY) statement on the Floor of the U.S. House of Representatives that praised the Republic of Turkey on May 9, 2012. Congressman Whitfield is a co-chair of the Congressional Turkish Caucus. The statement began:

“Congressman Whitfield’s statement in praise of Turkey, which was entered into the Congressional Record, is off-base on many accounts,” said AHI President Nick Larigakis. “First, the congressman commends Turkey for standing continuously with the United States ‘in our efforts to promote democracy and freedom throughout the world’ as a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO). AHI has consistently maintained that Turkey is an unreliable ally of the United States, which is clearly evident in Turkey’s actions not just in the present day but throughout the twentieth century and into the twenty-first century. This was clearly evident on numerous occasions during the Cold War as Turkey undermined NATO’s efforts by actively aiding the Soviet military to the serious detriment of the United States and continued with Turkey’s refusal to allow the United States to use bases in Turkey to open a northern front against the Saddam Hussein dictatorship in 2003.”
